TO PREPARE PLANS FOR STRUCTURE NOW

Viaduct Project To Be Pushed As Means Of Providing Work

Following a meeting between members of the executive committee of the Neshannock Viaduct Association and the board of county commissioners, which took place in the court house, Tuesday afternoon, the commissioners authorized County Engineer Thomas A. Gilkey to proceed at once with the plans for a viaduct to be built over Neshannock creek, from the end of Lincoln avenue to Croton avenue, just above the intersection with Walnut street.

It is proposed to build the viaduct as an employment project under the provisions of the President's program for construction of various public works, and the money to finance the construction will be asked from the government, through the commission in Harrisburg.

Concrete Structure

Under the present plans, a reinforced concrete structure will be built, with a thirty foot roadway and eight foot sidewalks on either side. It will be approximately 600 feet in length and over 100 feet in height above the bed of the creek.

County Engineer Gilkey has been at work making preliminary sketches of the proposed viaduct, and surveys of the proposed site have already been made by the city and county, providing for the approaches and location.

These sketches together with data showing the need for the viaduct, which has been approved by numerous grand juries, the city planning commission, traffic engineers, and a great number of citizens of the city and county who have signed petitions asking for the handling of the funds allocated to Pennsylvania road.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa saw an auto license plate number this morning that deserves a place in the list of oddities. It was "PS-8". Seems to suggest that it pays its existence to an afterthought.

Pa Newc observed a local machine bearing the license number PS8. It did not look like a postscript, however.

Another good rain would do gardens a lot of good, Pa Newc observes, but lawns and gardens are not quite as burnt-out looking as they were a few weeks ago. With only one more week remaining in August, very little more than an inch of rain has been recorded, however.

Concrete benches have been placed in the numerous parks and breathing spots around the city that are under municipal control.
They add a little touch that is most appealing.

Five Day Honeymoon Ends Heiress' Romance With Foreign Nobleman

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Disillusion moon today spelled "finis" to the latest romance of an American heiress and a foreign nobleman.

And, as a result, the former Janet Snowden and a husband of less than a week: Prince Francesco Don Caravita, are living apart. In the wake of brief honeymoon happiness were tears and mystery.

"I found that I didn't love him," the young princess said. "That was all there was to it. Please make that clear."

With all the strength at her command, she dismissed gossip rumors that she had married the prince merely to "spite" another man.

"There was no one else," she said.
"I did not marry for spite. I thought I really loved the prince, but I have found otherwise."

SAN JOSE, Cal., Aug. 23.—
Three sharp-eyed and trigger-witted deputies of the district attorney, the state's chief gunners in the famous Lamson murder case, today began getting their range on the handsome defendant.

Although all the officers of the court—the judge and attorneys for both sides—were still in the throes of selecting a jury, the prosecution's heaviest artillery was being brought up to be trained on the dark head of David A. Lamson, Stanford Uni-

Lamson To Testify

The fire will be loosed when the 31 year old university man, charged with slaying his pretty young wife, Alene, in their Stanford campus

"We're loaded for Lamson," an-him with a verbal fire that should bring him down—crack him if he dares to testify."

When found, a wire was twisted other wire was around his shoulders.

A plow point had been fastened in-

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kas.,

refused to discuss his wife trade with Major Stuart C. MacDonald, by which Captain Bradford gained the attractive brunette former wife of Major MacDonald and the latter won the equally attractive former Mrs. Bradford, a blonde.

"This matter of trading wives is nothing startling, but I'll admit that it is unusual," Captain Bradford said. "It is perfectly natural for a man to fall in love with another man's wife, and it also is perfectly natural for a woman to fall in love with another woman's husband."

The new Mrs. Bradford was equally reticent.

"Captain Bradford can do the

Whether the explosion reverber-

OPEN SHOP AND PRICE FIXING ARE CHIEF PROBLEMS

dustries, were active in the conferences which are to lead to a new pronouncement of policy on the labor question.

Resist Unionization
Employers who have declared they would resist the unionization movement are understood to be seeking guarantees that the enforcement machinery set up under codes of fair competition will not be used against them.

Organized labor leaders insist that all reservations in favor of the open shop are a violation of law and in addition demand the protection of the recovery administration in the enforcement of the law.

The decision of Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, to issue a clarification of the labor policy of the administration is the direct outgrowth of the conflicting demands of industry and labor.

The price fixing issue, which caused conflict in the drafting of the code, arose again in the negotiations which are expected to lead to the promulgation of a bituminous coal code.

Price Fixing Problem

A section of the bituminous industry was demanding that price-fixing be left to the industry itself rather than to the government agency as in the case of oil. They took the same position with respect to allocation of production.

This policy was favored by Johnson in the development of the recovery administration.

To Liberalize Bank Credits
Johnson disclosed plans are under way to liberalize bank credits throughout the country, not only to aid business men in financing increased costs but to spur all business.

The recovery administrator, declaring that commercial banking has virtually ceased to function, said plans would be placed before the Federal Reserve Board and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He expressed the hope that with restoration of confidence and increased employment, banking would resume its normal function. Confidence, he maintained, will come through success of the recovery plans.

Ice Cream Thefts Are Investigated
There have been a number of instances of phoney telephone calls to ice cream concerns from the Edison avenue district recently, one again last night, in which a gang is evidently operating for the purpose of stealing the ice cream. The police are determined that the practice must cease, as the gang not only steals the ice cream but the packers valued at ten dollars or more and makes quite a heavy loss for the company in question.

The number of a residence, is usually given, where it is found that there has been no order given to the concern, and while the driver is in the house telephoning his office for further instructions, the theft occurs. Prosecutions are looming.

Local People Held In Atlantic City

Stewart Foltz of Wallace avenue, was advised by telephone this morning by members of his family, who have been sojourning in Atlantic City, that they had attempted to start home this morning and on account of the terrific gale now blowing, that they were unable to get out of Atlantic City, owing to rising water conditions on the routes from the city and were compelled to return to their hotel there, until the storm abated. The storm and gale was going at a furious rate as they talked.

WILL SEEK U. S. FUNDS TO ERECT CROTON VIADUCT

sylvania by the Federal government by Engineer Gilkey at once. If the project is approved by the state commission and funds allotted the plans and specifications will be sent later.

There is little doubt in the minds of those who are backing the project, that the necessary funds will be forthcoming from the government, as no other project has been asked for by Lawrence county, as yet.

Long Desired
Agitation for the viaduct started forty years ago, and the need for its construction has steadily grown particularly since the construction of the senior high school, Cathedral and Jameson Memorial hospital, as it would provide a shortcut for the residents of the entire east side and certain sections of the south side to points on the North Hill, without passing through the downtown section.

Similarly, traffic passing from the north and west to the east, could be routed over the viaduct, taking this traffic away from the downtown section.

An agreement to erect the viaduct providing the funds could be secured from the state, was made by the commissioners about a month ago, but because no definite agreement could be reached between the city and county officials as to the width of the proposed roadway, the plans had not been started.

The acceptance of the width by the association, has settled this difference and work on the plans will now be speeded by County Engineer Gilkey, who will present the project to the state commission as speedily as possible.

Members of the executive committee who visited the commissioners Tuesday afternoon in behalf of the project included, President Edward R. Smith, Rev. C. S. Joshua, Attorney Frank A. Hoyer, Charles E. Allen and Alderman O. H. P. Green.

The Neshannock Viaduct Association has assured the commissioners of their unanimous support of the project, and feel elated that definite action toward the construction of the viaduct has finally been taken.

County Engineer Gilkey had previously made a visit to Harrisburg to ascertain whether the viaduct came within the provisions of money to the states for public works projects, and was assured that it did. It is therefore believed that the project will be given final approval and money allotted for its construction.

By ERNESTINE BALL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
San Jose, Cal., Aug. 23.—A faithful husband, a husband who might have been lifted bodily from one of the case records of Freud.

A well-balanced, loving, hardworking husband—as perfect a mate as any woman has a right to expect in this vale of matrimony.

Conflicting portraits of David Lamson, youthful and handsome Stanford University press executive, painted by attorneys for defense and the prosecution, ready for exhibition to the jury when the last salesman has been examined and accepted.

Today David Lamson comes into a courtroom still concerned with the business of finding twelve men and women who would be willing to inflict the death penalty even if certainty of his guilt is based upon circumstances, and not upon the direct testimony of eye-witnesses.

No Surprise Witness
The prosecution makes it clear by implication that it has no surprise witnesses to give direct evidence but they say David Lamson kill his pretty wife in the bathroom of their Stanford campus home on the morning of May 30.

But the prosecution, it was reliably learned today, will present men and women connected with Stanford University who will tell on the witness stand that Allene Lamson herself had confided in them that she was worried about Dave.

That she was keeping up the facade of a happy home, when back of that facade was misgiving, and conflict.

Allene Lamson's brother, Frank Thorpe, says "naturally the people connected with Stanford University don't like to get mixed up in a murder trial. Especially when it concerns their own—for Allene and David were both not only graduates, but employed right there on the campus."

Since I came out on this time from my home in Lamar, Missouri, to watch the trial I find a great change in opinion on the Stanford campus.

Want To See Justice Done
"They are not blood thirsty, our Stanford friends—any more than I am—but they want to see justice done. Some of them now feel it their duty to tell a few of the things they know that might throw light on the motives for the murder of my sister," Thorpe said.

The defense, on the other hand, comes into court today knowing that in those devious hang-outs where men will gamble on life and death the odds are three to one in favor of acquittal for David Lamson. "He may be guilty but there isn't enough evidence against him" is the line of chatter that fixes the gambling odds.

If reverberations from the gossip of the street, undercurrents in the courtroom, made his heart beat alternately with hope and foreboding David Lamson has yet to give outward evidence of it. He is tense but seems to have himself sternly in hand.

Yet the fellow who says liquor makes you hotter is the same one who says it doesn't warm you up in winter.

STEAMER FLASHES DISTRESS SIGNAL OFF CAPE CHARLES

which received all previous S. O. S. messages sent out by the Madison, stated at 1:30 p. m. they had not picked up the wireless in which the vessel reported she was sinking.

Dangerous To Ship
At the Mackay radio corp. where the distress signal was plucked out of the air at 7:20 this morning, it was the belief that seas violent enough to have ripped off the deck house of a ship the size of the Madison would prove increasingly dangerous for a crippled boat.

Steering apparatus and other essential mechanical control mechanism are located in the forward house. However, the ship can be steered from a wheel in the stern.

At 9:08 a. m. E. D. T. the radio-marine corporation received word that the steamer Carabasset was speeding to the Madison's rescue. At the time the wireless was sent, the ship was near the Thimble Shoals. The Carabasset does not appear in Lloyd's register of shipping.

Believes Passengers Not In Peril
"I do not believe the lives of passengers and crew are in danger," said Col. J. A. Coates, vice president of the eastern steamship company, of which the old Dominion is a subsidiary.

"The forward house was like a box on a raft, set extremely toward the prow of the Madison. It could have been washed away without danger to the passengers, who are considerably aft."

The Madison was built in 1911 at Newport News, Va. it has a gross tonnage of 3,734, is 353.3 feet from stem to stern, with a beam of 42.1 feet and a depth of 16.8 feet. Its horsepower is 3,200.

Two Ships Ask Help
NORFOLK, Aug. 23.—Coast guard cutters raced from this port today to aid in the rescue of two ships calling for help off the Virginia Capes.

The first call for help came from a four masted schooner believed to be the R. E. Gobin of New York. She went aground the North Carolina coast early this morning.

The second to send out an "SOS" was the steel passenger steamer Madison, of the Old Dominion line operating between here and New York.

The grand jury called Medalie. For two hours, Medalie presented documents and oral testimony to support his charges.

At the conclusion of his testimony, the U. S. attorney said he was well satisfied with the reception given him by the grand jury and was confident it would take appropriate action.

Benjamin Minton, foreman of the grand jury, announced the higher body would investigate the charges to the fullest extent.

The next step will be the appearance of presiding justice Frederic Kernochan, Democrat, of special sessions court, before the grand jury. Kernochan, on vacation at East Dennis, Mass., telegraphed he would be glad to appear to testify "as soon as possible."

TIME TO SPEND—TIME TO BUY

FAMILIES and individuals may not seem to count much in a nation of 125,000,000 people. Their expenditures may seem trivial. But an army is made up of single soldiers. The mightiest economic group on earth—the American people—is composed of earning and spending units varying from one to half a dozen people.

These are fighting units in the war against poverty. Every person counts, every dollar counts, every dime counts. Money must work as well as men and women. It is the lifeblood of business.

There is no call for extravagance. Spending should be careful and considered. But spending there must be. The rich should spend according to their means, like the poor. Hoarders should start pouring their money into the stream. Earners must keep their income moving. Otherwise we fall back where we were a few months ago.

The latest word is cheerful. Consumption is gaining on production. It must not stop until the two are abreast.

MUST REGISTER IN NEW CASTLE

Voters in New Castle, where personal registration is required, should remember that in order to cast ballots at the primary election, September 19, and the general election, November 7, they must personally register on one of the three registration days.

The first of these is August 31, and every one who can should make it a point to get registered on that day, then the matter will be out of the way. The other registration days are September 5 and September 16.

All previous registrations are now void and unless one registers on one of the appointed days he will not be able to vote this Fall or at the Spring primary next May, when candidates for Governor, United States Senator, Congress and State Legislature are to be nominated. It takes only a few minutes to attend to this and it is a civic duty which there is no excuse for neglecting.

Voters in townships and boroughs, if they are in any doubt as to whether their names are on the voting lists, should make inquiry.

THE STEADY RELIABLE MAN

There is a new hero in the baseball world. It is none other than Lou Gehrig, the first baseman of the New York Yankees. Recently he played in his 1307th consecutive game. Thus he matched the record which had previously been made by Everett Scott of the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees. Since then he has continued to play, and as these lines are being written he has broken all previous records for continuous performance in the sport. Lou has not missed a game the Yankees have played since he first broke into the league as a rookie in 1925. It is a remarkable achievement; but Mr. Gehrig takes it quite modestly, saying that, as baseball is his business, there is no good reason why he should not go in every day and do the best he can for his team.

It is hardly fair to look on this performance as the record of a test of endurance; it would be more correct to say that it establishes a new mark for steadiness and reliability. Men of Gehrig's type would be valuable in any line of endeavor. But for some reason the dependable men in business and in sports do not often get into the limelight. They are taken for granted, and yet without them many a concern would be pushed into the background. Fans are thrilled with the fence busting of Babe Ruth and the home run record of Jimmy Foxx. They deserve all the glory they get, but if it were not for the Gehrigs of baseball many of the clubs would pass out of the picture.

So we propose a toast to Lou Gehrig and all the other dependable men in and out of baseball, who can be counted upon to be on the job every day as long as they are physically able to go about their appointed tasks!

A JOB FOR STEADY NERVES

Those who have pondered for a moment on the magnitude of the NRA program must have asked themselves how mortal man can long stand up under the traffic strain the job is imposing on President Roosevelt, General Johnson and their aides.

The president wisely took a brief vacation after congress adjourned and has crowded a little recreation into each busy week. General Johnson, less wisely, has kept going day and night at a killing pace. President Roosevelt, noticing the effect on the general of the nervous strain under which he is working, has told him to go home and get some sleep. Johnson is still trying to find the time for the sleep.

Badly as the NRA administrator's services are needed 24 hours of the day he must be spared long enough for whatever hours of sleep and recreation he needs to conserve his physical energies and mental powers. The job is too big and too important to be trusted to a drowsy and tired man.

In its critical stages the national recovery program requires quick decisions, poise and unerring judgment. If General Johnson is going to see the job through, he must conserve a portion of his strength. It is important that he see it through.

The outlook is bright for those who look out.

When hope looks backward it is transformed into regret.

MY ANONYMOUS LETTER

One thing I never did. I never wrote an anonymous letter, never sat down and wrote what I thought about somebody and signed it "A Friend" or signed with its some fictitious name and took it down and slipped it into a mail box and said to myself, "There! that'll show that big fake who people think of him!" No, I don't feel holier-than-thou about never writing any anonymous letters. . . . I've wanted to do it. I've had the impulse to write a few frank opinions of the other fellow. I've even, if I remember clearly, phrased whole letters in my mind. . . . But laziness, or procrastination, or some faint premonition of how cheap I'd feel myself after the lid of the mail box clanged irrevocably on my letter—of how often, without pride, with a flush of shame, I'd remember that all-to-human anonymous message.

So I've never written any. But I've had them. I've written things occasionally that have provoked people and they have been angry. They've nursed their wrath and kept it warm and thought over what they'd say to that fellow (meaning me.) Then they've written. (And I've noticed too, how much better a vocabulary a writer has when he's scolding than when he's praising. It's that way with everybody almost.) I've even had anonymous letters of praise and they've warmed my heart, made me overflow with good feeling toward men or women who will say a kind thing and hide their identities. But the cantankerous ones have made me miserable, sickened me, up to me more than I should confess. They used to do that more than they do now, perhaps because my skin is thicker now.

But the one I received yesterday didn't bother me at all. It called me a "smug newspaperman" and extended the remarks considerably. The woman who wrote it was scolding me for an article that had appeared in the paper and she thought I wrote it. But I hadn't. The opinions that were in it were hardly mine, but she thought they were. So she told me a few things I ought to know and she didn't sign her name. And it doesn't hurt at all, because she really meant her remarks for another fellow instead of me. My only regret is I can't write to tell her so. . . . But there's one anonymous letter that missed its mark completely, and I have an idea that nearly all of them do, in one way or another.

NARROW MINDS

Considering the favorable start you had in life, have you made good?

When you compare your accomplishments with those who have had more handicaps are you not pretty nearly a failure?

Yet you think you have done pretty well because you have reached a respected position in society or in business.

Your parents looked out for your education, a favorable environment and gave you a good family standing to reach a much higher plane than you have attained.

So do not give yourself too much credit for success you've gained.

You need not feel that others who are struggling along to reach your standard are far your inferiors.

You are giving them no credit for the obstacles they have overcome which you have never had to contend with.

Your preparation for your chosen line of endeavor you have taken as a matter of course, not as your particular good fortune.

Is it not possible that you think that those who have not had the sort of instruction you have had, have no right to assume to hold the position you fill?

If this is your idea you are pretty small-minded and there are many just like you but it is narrow-minded, nevertheless.

SONG OF CONSOLATION FOR POOR GOLFERS

Golf is an art, a timely knack Which few possess and many lack. Nor all the tutoring with the clubs Can fashion experts out of dubs.

So come to frown And write it down If hook or slice your trouble be, In all you know Of golfing woe You've always excellent company.

Though Mussolini may be great, He cannot drive a golf ball straight. And I will bet that England's king Has never learned the golfing swing.

So for the dubs Of all the clubs This one consoling line I pen, Who's born so weak That he must peck, Looks up with countless gentlemen.

In vain it is to curse and rage, The game has baffled many a sage And many an eloquent divine Can't keep a golf ball on the line.

Tough brassie lies Perplex the wise, So when you err with game at stake Part with your peff Then tell yourself Few great men ninety ever break. (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

COLLEGE AND THE PAY CHECK

One of the reasons commonly given in advising a young man to go to college is that a college training will help him to succeed, later on, in a business career. But Dr. John Wilcox, of Detroit City College, greeted freshmen at that institution with the assertion that that is the poorest of all reasons for getting collegiate training.

"If I had a brainy boy and wanted him to make money, I'd refuse to educate him," he said. "A good education should teach him not to sacrifice his life to money making. I can't make money. I don't want to badly enough. Why think I can teach you to make it?"

Here is a note that ought to be sounded a bit oftener by our educators. After you are graduated from college you may land in a well-paid job and you may not.

New York Election Watched As Test Of Political Forces

Tammany's Care Of Interests Of Rank And File Matched With Fusion Opposition To Extravagance In Government

New York looms in the popular mind as offering in its local election campaign a cross-section of politics and a test of two different systems—the paternalism of the Tammany organization and the force of public sentiment guided by an awakened national conscience. Through the country there are some predictions of Tammany success, mingled with the conclusion that former Representative La Guardia, with capacity for forceful campaigning and fusion support, offers a serious menace to the regular city Democrats. Opinions differ as to the strength of Mayor O'Brien, the organization candidate, but it is recognized that he must leave the campaigning to his associates.

"The feeling in New York against misgovernment, waste, extravagance and graft is such that La Guardia might turn the trick," thinks the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, observing that he "is a skillful politician, and while he may not win the battle, he will come near victory than ever before." The HARTFORD TIMES feels that "Tammany is riding for a fall," that "for once it is at the mercy of its political critics." The COLUMBIA (S. C.) RECORD holds that "La Guardia has a hard battle ahead of him, but it isn't altogether hopeless." The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION sees "an opportunity for victory, if the voters are at all responsive to the evidence accumulated of the heavy cost and glaring evils of Tammy rule."

"No one is, perhaps, better qualified to make deadly use of the damaging facts brought out against Tammany by the Seabury commission, than La Guardia," says the SAN JOSE MERCURY HERALD, which believes that he is probably the strongest candidate. That paper predicts "a display of political fireworks never before seen in New York." Conceding that the fusion candidate "might be defeated" the BALTIMORE EVENING SUN believes that "when it is all over, the Tammany braves will know they have been in a fight."

Lining up elements is regarded by the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL as "a matter of promising significance." That paper adds: "In the main an excellent ticket has been chosen in civic movement for the ousting of Tammany from the control of New York City, and care has been taken to secure the representative of every political group. It is the strength of its aggressive leader. No possible doubt can exist as to Mr. La Guardia's fervent hostility to Tammany and for those who may feel out of political sympathy with him there could be no sounder endorsement of his candidacy than has been given by Samuel Seabury. The Journal believes that "a Tammany triumph next November, considering the City's present condition is something that cannot be regarded lightly."

"Some concrete hope for fusion" is found by the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, in the fact that the Tammany group "is not a fighting ticket but mainly a collection of undistinguished party men." It gives the further explanation of the personnel involved: "Tammany drops two current office holders who were

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 23

Weather Works: Although the heating influence of the sun increases with the length of the day and with the sun's altitude at noon, the longest days are not the hottest. Explanation: In June, when maximum daylight is attained, the loss by radiation at night is still sufficient to offset the heat received by day. Not until July or August do the two become equal, resulting in maximum temperatures.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On
In Harrisburg—
And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

"School days" will soon be here again.

More than 2,100,000 Pennsylvania boys and girls soon will return to classrooms in answer to the call of the first school bell.

Classes start in most school districts the day after Labor Day, Tuesday, Sept. 5.

Public schools face financial difficulties for the year 1934, the 100th anniversary of their founding in Pennsylvania. Co-operation of everybody concerned will be necessary to keep them all open for full terms.

From the first day the schools will enroll the largest number of pupils in their history. Last year's 2,100,000 figure will be exceeded. The 2,587 school districts are doing their best to give every boy and girl a chance to get an education as guaranteed in Pennsylvania's Constitution.

But pupils will find many courses discontinued because of lack of funds with which to keep them up, even though it means keeping children from preparing for their life work.

Much worse than that, in some rural sections, a number of boys and girls may be deprived of opportunity to attend high school at all.

Certain school districts are unable to pay high school tuition to other districts; in fact, some have not paid last year's bills. The parents of these rural boys and girls cannot pay the tuition themselves.

Certainly this is concrete evidence that every school district ought to be large enough to support a real high school.

But every school is to open for the 1933-34 term, so far as the Department of Public Instruction has been able to determine. In this we are more fortunate than some other states. Classes will be maintained for the full minimum term in the great majority of districts. At present it appears that some of the financially distressed districts will be unable to go through the year with resources now in sight unless special aid is provided. Many such districts have asked and received advance payments of their state appropriations for August and September.

There are a number of things, in addition to the financial problem, which combine to make the public education burden this year heavier than usual. The National Recovery Act prevents co-operating industrial employers from hiring boys and girls under 16 years of age. Previously pupils from 14 to 16 could obtain work certificates and go to school on a part-time basis, a minimum of eight hours a week. It is estimated that more than 15,000 such boys and girls will be returned to school on a full-time basis this fall as a result of the N. R. A. Fortunately most of these reside in districts able to absorb them in the seventh to 10th grades.

Most of our high schools will be filled to capacity. Fewer students are dropping out in the higher grades and larger classes cannot be avoided. Some of the city districts need additional space but cannot provide it.

On top of this school officials expect thousands of high school graduates of this year and last to ask re-admittance to the schoolroom for post-graduate study. They are unable to go to college and would rather study at home than be idle. This is fine, but there will be some districts quite unable to care for graduate students in their high schools. Night schools should be bigger than ever in those communities that are able to support them. All kinds of extension courses should be popular, and are recommended for all who would learn but can't earn.

Surprisingly few districts have sought permission to reduce salaries of teachers below the 90 per cent level set by legislative action for the coming year. This shows willingness of school boards to cut expenses to a minimum and still maintain the state standards. At the same time they recognize the teacher as the most important cog in the educational wheel and are paying her to the limit of ability of local and state resources.

Mahoning School Building Cleaned For Class Opening

Cleaning, Repairs About Finished—Bell To Ring In Less Than Two Weeks

So that Mahoning school building will be clean as a new pin and in good repair for the start of school next month, Ellwood Thomas and A. T. Johnston have been hard at work most of the summer. Assisted by several other employees of the New Castle School District they have done considerable plastering on the ceilings and walls of classrooms needing it.

Walls, ceilings, floors, desks and pictures have been thoroughly cleaned, some touch-up painting done, chairs, blackboards and woodwork repaired.

And it won't be long now, a matter of less than two weeks, in fact, until the morning when the school bell will ring and call back the several hundred students to their studies.

Judgement of the merits of the present Mayor. "In renominating Mayor or John P. O'Brien Tammany meets the issue squarely. O'Brien is a well educated, really capable lawyer, an experienced politician and a dyed-in-the-wool Tammany Democrat. He is a good type of man. The objection is not to him, but to the system back of him. Tammany has attempted to maintain its organization of office holders in full numbers at salaries far beyond the ability of New York taxpayers. It is this failure to balance the city's budget which will defeat O'Brien, if he is elected."

"The Tammany ticket is strictly machine, of course" as viewed by the NEW YORK SUN, "but that gives it a better chance for success than if it had been partly window-dressed. If the Democrats win the election after all the mistakes and charges that have marked the last four years it will be largely because of the power of organization."

(MORNING) SUN feels certain that "fusion forces face the opposition of the hundreds of thousands of job holders." The CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST is of the opinion that doubtless the present mayor will be re-elected" and suggests that it is really a pity that a capable opposition to Tammany cannot be organized."

Austrian Legion Of Young Men Is Latest By Nazis

Nazi Leaders Are Spiriting Austrian Youths Into Military Service

(International News Service)
VIENNA, Aug. 23.—By means of a widespread smuggling system comparable to the "underground railroad" of slave days in the United States, Nazi Germany has created an "Austrian Legion" consisting of from 10,000 to 15,000 Austrian youths, according to reports in government sources today.

Existence of the Legion, it was charged, became known when authorities discovered centers of the smuggling organization at St. Pölten in lower Austria and at Muhlthal near the Bavarian border.

Most of the recruits to the Legion allow themselves to be spirited across the border voluntarily, it was said, but charges were made that at least some of them have been deliberately kidnaped from their parents' home and pressed into service.

North Beaver School Sends Competitors

Six Boys Of Mt. Jackson Vocational School Attend State College Contests

According to H. I. Bartges, superintendent of agriculture of the North Beaver Vocational school at Mt. Jackson, the six boys of the school who went to the annual judging and public speaking contests of the F. F. A. at State College, August 14 to 17 made a favorable showing in the various classes where they were entered.

The contestants were Charles Shaffer, Jacob Serjack, Louis Serjack, Lyle Gibson, Robert Miller and Chester Leslie.

Robert Miller was in the poultry judging team and judged two classes of barred Plymouth rocks and single comb white leghorns.

Chester Leslie competed in the general livestock contest in which he judged Percheron horses, Hereford and Shorthorn beef cattle; Berkshire and Chesterwhite sows and a class of sheep.

Jacob Serjack entered the farm mechanics contest in which he competed in making a double draw halter and a drawing of farm implements and the identification of some eighty articles used in the shop and about the farm; he won sixth place in this class and did a good piece of work.

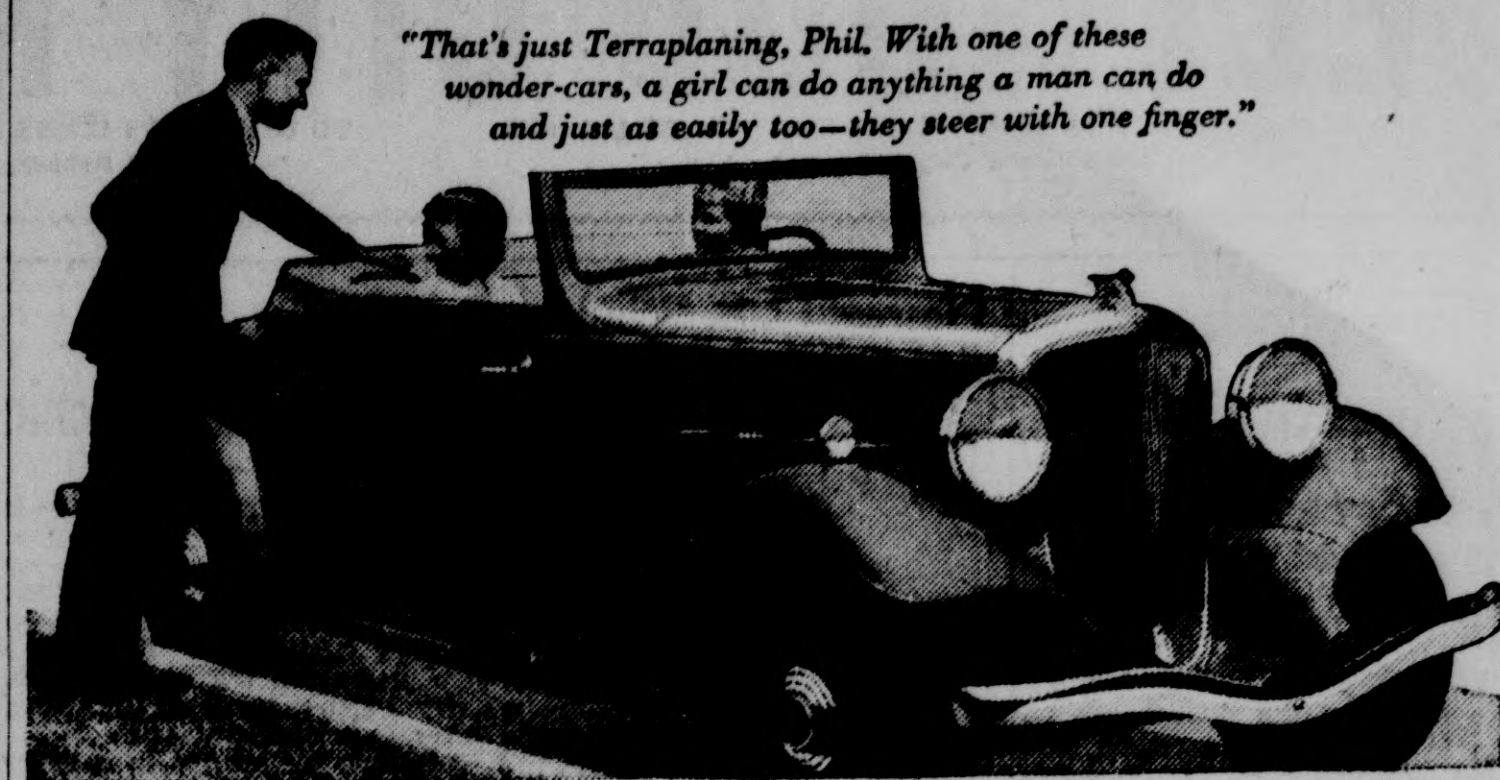

Charles Shaffer contested in the public speaking contest and won sixth place. His oration was on "The Emergency Farm Mortgage Act of 1933."

The judges of the contests this year said the competition was keener than any held in previous years for the future farmers.

There were about 650 boys entered in the various contests and the New Castle boys made a good showing.

The boys took the four hundred and fifty mile trip by bus and on the trip to State College they went through Butler, Kittanning, Indiana, Ebensburg, Hollidaysburg, Watershed, Seven Stars and Pine Grove.

Curb-parking, rounding sharp turns, braking at sudden stops, constant gearshifting on hills and in traffic—these are hard, exhausting work for anyone with cars built in the old fashioned way.

But never with a Terraplane.

Terraplaning and ordinary "automobiling" are so different that driving a Terraplane for the first time is an entirely new experience. Won't you try it?

What we can't understand is how Huey escapes hanging if his enemies escapes suits for libel.

Will Start Campaign To Get N. R. A. 'Chiselers'

By ARTHUR O. WHELAN
Special Washington Correspondent
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—Those who have displayed NRA blue eagles without abiding by provisions of fair practice codes are risking losing their insignia under an imminent drive against such offenders by the recovery administration.

With more than 1,500,000 industrial and business concerns having affixed signatures to fair practice codes, General Hugh S. Johnson has decided that it is time to seek out those not abiding by their agreements. He has not determined just how this will be done but is now preparing an organization to police the nation. Probably local organizations will be assigned the duty of bringing to light the names of those violating codes.

As immediate punishment, such offenders will lose their blue eagle. This, in the eyes of General Johnson, will constitute a sufficient penalty. The General believes loss of the insignia will mean "economic death."

According to unofficial reports reaching Washington there are a number in New Castle who are displaying eagles without having made any effort to reduce hours of labor or increase salaries to comply with their codes. Under General Johnson's plan, all such offenders will be deprived of their eagle and this fact will be given publicity. The General is determined to smash all "chiselers" without exception.

Applicants Must Know Answers

Applicant For Auto Driver's Permit Fails To Study
Questions

State Highway patrolmen who conducted the examination of applicants for a motor vehicle operator's permit here yesterday had a peculiar case before them and the applicant was instructed to study the questions before a permit could be issued.

The man has been driving a car for a score years, but went to Ohio when he returned here to take the examination here. His driving was satisfactory but he had failed to study the questions. The examining officer in pursuance to the rules of the test, was forced to refuse him a permit.

It is absolutely necessary that applicants know the answers to the questions according to State Highway patrolmen.

Drive For Blue Eagles Gaining More Momentum

Leaders Of Campaign In Roosevelt Administration See Nation United

VOLUNTEER ARMY OF WORKERS SWELLED

With the Blue Eagle drive daily gaining momentum in every part of the country, there is mounting evidence that the nation soon will be enlisted 100 percent behind this new American bird. Reports reaching New Castle from Washington today gave a stirring picture of a campaign for re-employment that is unique in the annals of this or any other country. According to these reports approximately 6,000 communities are now organized with a militant crew of volunteer workers who are going the limit of their ability to make possible the objectives of President Roosevelt and National Recovery Administrator Johnson which is 5,000,000 more men and women on the payrolls of the nation by Labor Day. And to this volunteer army, thousands of recruits are being added daily as new communities by the hundreds take up the work.

One of the marvels of the campaign, so it is pointed out, is the sheer speed with which these mighty strides have been attained. It is literally a matter of days since the Blue Eagle first was thrust across the American horizon. Less than 30 days ago, General Johnson sent out a message to the heads of commercial organizations in all parts of the country asking them to take the initiative in forming militant Blue Eagle organizations in their respective communities. This was the beginning of the campaign. In less than 24 hours thereafter wires, phone calls, and letters began a bombardment that has never ceased.

In the N. R. A. offices in Washington, executives for days have been literally swamped with correspondence, thus showing the tremendous public reaction. It has not been possible even for the great facilities of the U. S. Government to deliver consumer's cards, stickers, Blue Eagle insignia and other supplies and paraphernalia as rapidly as the public has demanded them. Recently a fleet of 24 airplanes sailed from New York to the North, West and South loaded to capacity with campaign supplies but still the demand was unsatisfied. However, officials in Washington promise that all demands will be met and that if organizations will exercise just a little patience all the required literature and insignia will reach them before the culminating week of effort which will begin next Monday.

The task so far has been to shape up the local organizations. By next Monday it is expected that all this will have been completed and then the army will be ready to march.

And the army, according to Washington advices today, will be kept on the march until all America yields to the Blue Eagle. Which is just another way of saying—Until the back of the depression has been broken.

Pennsylvania Holds Unique N. R. A. Spot

(International News Service) WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 23.—Because Pennsylvania has been industrialized beyond any other state in the nation, it becomes the battle ground on which will be fought the decisive struggle for National Recovery, Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the Commonwealth, asserted here Tuesday in a plea for support of the NRA.

"No state stands to profit as much from NRA as Pennsylvania and no state can do as much to forward sincere compliance with NRA as Pennsylvania," Beamish said.

"Pennsylvania's duty is plain. Its duty is to see that government shall be given full and fair opportunity to function."

FLOOD CONTROL TO BE STUDIED

Mayors And Burgesses Of Western Pennsylvania To Meet In Pittsburgh

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23.—Mayors and burgesses of nearly 100 western Pennsylvania communities will meet with Mayor John S. Herron here this afternoon in the first step of a concerted drive to advance the flood control project of the upper Allegheny and Monongahela rivers and their tributaries.

This latest move in the fifteen-year fight to bring federal attention to flood control and subsequent economic rehabilitation of this area was announced last week by Mayor Herron in the keynote address opening his campaign for re-election this fall.

The project, as developed through studies by the flood commission of Pittsburgh, involves an expenditure of $67,500,000 and provides, among other works, for 10 reservoirs located at strategic headwaters points. Definite action is expected at this afternoon's conference. Appointment of committees to work on the project and explanations of difficulties and of past accomplishments by representative interested persons are planned for the meeting.

Increasing demand for lumber, observed virtually everywhere, is ascribed to renewed house building.

Beamish urged persons to purchase merchandise only from NRA stores which in turn should acquire all their products from NRA factories.

"The voters of Pennsylvania should stand ready to express thru the next session of the legislature their support for whatever measures will make most effective the policies of the National Recovery administration," he continued. "I have in mind several matters that need attention. A certain group of private banks have been exempt from any inspection in this state. A great deal of objection to NRA can be traced to some of these institutions. There is no reason why they should be above the law."

If your elephant wants to ride on top IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH A CHEVROLET

CHEVROLET We didn't actually plan on elephants when we chose the bodies for the new Chevrolet. But we did choose bodies rigid enough, and strong enough, to support six tons of elephant or anything else you can name. Fisher bodies . . . steel bodies plus a hardwood frame . . . exactly the same type of bodies used on all 12 and 16-cylinder cars. Steel alone is not enough to make you as safe and secure as we want you to be in a Chevrolet. A steel body, welded into a solid wall of protection plus resilient hardwood reinforcing to take up stress, absorb shocks and prevent the steel from following its natural tendency to buckle under pressure makes the sturdiest body of all—the kind used on the Chevrolet, and on no other low-priced car. Remember that when you buy a car. Be sure to get all you pay for . . . the super-safety of a steel-plus-wood Fisher body.

Express Agent's Flower Bed Gets Good Start But—

Agent J. W. Anderson's surprise was something like that of the mother hen when she saw her brood waddle down to the shore and take to water. But after the first shock, he laughed good naturedly and remarked that it would certainly be "a very practical garden, anyhow, and a little different."

Now he is quite accustomed to looking out at the little circular flower garden at the side of the Railway Express office, Pennsylvania station, West Washington street, and seeing a few pretty canas peering out anxiously from between many stocks of corn. But visitors to the office never fail to stop in amazement when their eyes light on the strange looking spectacle.

It is all the fault of that certain someone who planted the handful of feed taken from a chicken crate after the flower bed had been given just as good a start in life as any in the entire city.

SENDS TELEGRAM TO DETROIT PROBER

(International News Service)
PALO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 23.—Former President Herbert Hoover, here today from a fishing trip, in a long telegram to Prosecutor Harry S. Toy at Detroit, turned down an invitation to appear as a witness before a grand jury there investigating Detroit's bank crash last winter.

Mr. Hoover said that such information as he could give "is only general and is mostly second hand, and is insufficient to warrant a journey to Detroit."

He said "detailed and competent" information would be more effective if given by "former officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the federal reserve board, the then comptroller of the currency, and from their records."

New Program For American Legion

Will Press Next Congress For Elimination Of Drastic Cuts

(International News Service)
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Aug. 23.—That the American Legion will press the next congress for elimination of the cuts imposed under the Roosevelt economy policy upon veterans' appropriations, was indicated here today at the Michigan departmental convention.

Edward Hayes, rehabilitation chairman of the Illinois department, presented a four-point program which he said has the approval of the national committee.

The program, which it was indicated, will be urged upon congress, calls for a restoration of the policies in effect under the Hoover administration. The program would suffer no reduction of the benefits granted disabled veterans under the world war veterans act. It also supports hospitalization for honorably discharged veterans who cannot reasonably pay for treatment of other than war-resultant maladies.

Recalls Early Tin Mill Days

Joseph Mann, Now 83, Sees Big Difference In Mill Methods

Joseph Mann, aged 83 years, of Marshall avenue, one of the oldest tin mill workers in the city, but now retired from active service, sees a big difference between present day methods and those which were in use when he was in his prime.

Mr. Mann paid a visit to the Shenango Works a few weeks ago, through the courtesy of D. S. Pyle, manager of the plant, and found a great improvement, particularly in the finishing department.

He recalled the fact that Mr. Pyle was a timekeeper when he, Mr. Mann, started to work in the old Greer Mill, after coming to New Castle from Atlanta, Ind., in 1893. Mann worked at the Greer Mill until the Shenango Works was started, when he was transferred to that plant. His three boys, James, Joseph, and Wesley Mann are all working at the Shenango Works at the present time.

On July 29, Mr. Mann was 83 years of age, and next Sunday is the 62nd anniversary of his marriage. His wife passed away several years ago.

Not Resigning Says Mayor Kelly

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago has no intention of resigning, he announced today.

The revelation last week that Mayor Kelly had been compelled to pay the United States government approximately $105,000 taxes on unreported income for the years 1928, 1927 and 1928 had caused agitation among civic leaders to prevail upon the mayor to step out.

"I am not going to resign," said Mayor Kelly. "I have not even thought of it, and I see no reason why I should resign."

Pittsburgh Starts New York Series

Loses Four Straight Games To Boston—Seeks To Turn Tables In Gotham

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—What ground they lost in dropping the entire series of four games to Boston, the Pittsburgh Pirates will attempt to retrieve in a five-game stand against the New York Giants, which opens today with a double-header.

It made the Gibsons plenty peeved when they saw their team slip two notches into fourth place after losing a tight tussle to Boston, 5-4, in 14 innings yesterday.

And right there they determined to do their darndest to take those defeats out of the hides of the Giants, whom they have been chasing for many moons in an effort to reach the top.

A home run by Wally Berger, Boston middle gardener, ended a pitching duel between Waite Hoyt and Freddie Frankhouse of the Braves.

Hoyt, after relieving Hal Smith in the third as the Pirates trailed 4-1, pitched hitless ball for 8 1-3 frames and allowed but two hits in the 11 innings he worked. One of the two safeties, Berger's homer, broke the 4-4 deadlock through which the teams played from the sixth to the end of the 13th inning.

It is almost certain that Ralph Birkofer, southpaw acquired from Toronto, will see service in the Giant series, since the Boston games saw every Pittsburgh starting pitcher on the mound.

Andy Mattis, 24 hurler for the Johnstown Middle Atlantic team, is in a critical condition in a Johnstown hospital, the result of blood poisoning from the infection of a tooth. He underwent a blood transfusion but did not rally after the operation. His home is in Brownsville. Mattis was with Beaver Falls in 1931 and was bought by the Pirates. Last year he was with Tulsa, Okla.

Red Cagle of Army football and Shipwreck Kelly former Kentucky grid star have bought the Brooklyn football team of the National league from Bill Dwyer and associates.

Big League teams are on the alert for hurriers. Yesterday Brooklyn bought Emil Leonard, right hander, from New York of the New York-Pennsylvania league. He is to report immediately.

Another youngster who will get a tryout with a big team is Nick Eiten of the Davenport, Mississippi Valley league. He is 19 and romps in the outfield. He will report at the end of his team's season.

UTILITY STOCKS
UNDER PRESSURE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Aggressive buying of the pivotal leaders including U. S. Steel, New York Central, Western Union and General Motors brought a resumption of the rally in the stock market today.

Weakness of the dollar and the action of General Johnson in asking the federal reserve system to force credit expansion also were factors in encouraging speculators for the advance to further activity.

U. S. Steel was a feature on the upside as it pushed above 56 for a new high on the recovery.

New York Central was the leader of the rally with a gain of more than a point. Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Lackawanna and Southern Railway also participated in the rally.

Liquor shares staged a sharp recovery after early weakness and losses of fractions to 2 points were quickly erased.

Utility stocks, however, continued under pressure with United Corp.

Consolidated Gas and American Telephone holding barely steady around their previous closings.
The commodity markets were steady with wheat practically unchanged around the previous finals, and cotton up about 15 cents a bale.

Minimum

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Charging that the merchants of the nation are attempting to get provisions in the retail code which will enable them to do a minimum amount of re-employing, Isaac Teitelbaum, president of the New York Retail Furniture Association, today came out for a flat 30 hour week in all retail trades.

Teitelbaum, one of the first witnesses at the second day's hearing on the code, said the proposed 44 hours maximum work provision would cause most employers merely to stagger hours for their present employees.

Relief Teachers

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Rural and other schools that would have been closed for lack of funds will be staffed by federal unemployment relief funds, Harry L. Hopkins of the office announced today. He is now on a tour of several cities surveying relief needs.

To meet such situations over the country, it was announced, needy, unemployed teachers will be allowed to work for the unemployment relief, following their profession.

NUDIST COLONY
PLAN COSTS JOB

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 23.—Because his plans for the establishment of a "nudist colony" were shocking to members of the school board, Alfred Bennetch, 50, was without his position as teacher at Pleasant Retreat school in West Cocalico township today.

Bennetch, who refused to resign voluntarily, was ousted last night by the school board which named Miss Florence Hartranft, Adamstown, as his successor.

Despite the board's action, Bennetch insists he will teach at Pleasant Retreat this fall. He abandoned his "nudist colony" plans because public opinion was opposed to nude frolics in Lancaster county.

TRAGEDY REVEALED
IN PITTSBURGH

Grader were found slumped over in the seat of Kerr's auto today by a passing motorist. The Yonkers girl died this morning, a short time after she had taken one of six capsules she bought from Kerr to find relief from a headache.

Kerr's wife, Mrs. Margaret Kerr, is in Syracuse, N. Y., on a vacation. Identification of the druggist and Mrs. Grader was made the latter's husband, J. L. Grader, at county morgue. He told police Kerr came to his home last night and asked if Mrs. Grader could accompany him to a party in another suburb where they were to stay one lady.

"It was a strange request," Grader admitted today. "But I've known him so long that I trusted him implicitly."

Motive for the apparent double suicide was unknown. Police were investigating in an attempt to learn whether Kerr gave the Yonkers girl poison by accident or intentionally.

Dickson Visits Historical Spots

Fred L. Rentz, president of The News, is in receipt of an interesting letter from George A. Dickson, former superintendent of schools here, who spent the early part of the summer as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Rentz and other friends in the city. Mr. Dickson expects to return to California in a few days now, and will stop off here for a brief visit enroute back home, he writes.

Spruce Creek, Pa.
August 20, 1933.
My Dear Fred:—

Well, I am yet and still a sojourner amid the Allegheny Mountains, a forest and a mountain behind me, a meadow, a creek, and a highway, in front of me. We shall be here a week or more, then in "our west."

I spent three weeks around Philadelphia, not in it at all except to the Pennsylvania railroad station. All the hot weather I ever saw or felt, not hotter, hottest. I also visited a lot of historical places, Valley Forge, the battlefield of Brandywine, Chadds Ford, and especially the old town of New Castle, Delaware, one of the most interesting places, historically, outside New England. Tradition and Col. DuShane used to tell me that the founders of your fair city came from there, and brought the name, with them, and that their ancestors had come from New Castle-on-Tyne, and had brought the name with them. DuShane was of the Huguenots who came with Penn or thereafter, following the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, as well as the DuPonts of DuPont de Nemours.

The Swedes held forth around here about 1637. Then the Dutch annexed the Swedes. Then in 1663, the English annexed the whole region from New England to Calvert's colony of Maryland, and in 1680, James, the Second, gave William Penn a charter to the fief of Pennsylvania. In 1682, Penn landed in New Castle, his first landing in America, and was invested with his feudal province by the ceremony of "livery in seisin." The presentation to him by an officer of the King, of a piece of sod, a twig, and a pitcher of water, and the recognition of the overlordship of the King. All this at that time was mostly ceremony, but it harked back to feudal times. Penn afterward went on to the present site of Chester.

The Episcopal church dates back to 1703 and the Presbyterian to 1707.

I found the New Castle names of Ewer and Sword on tombstones. I didn't get into the Presbyterian cemetery, but I imagine a fine line of New Castle Scotch-Irish names might be found there. Three signers of the Declaration of Independence lived there, one of whom, George Reid, also was a signer of the Constitution. Other eminent men lived there, such as Senator George Gray. Many ancient houses, as well as public buildings remain. Some New Castle ought to visit there, look up genealogies and write it up.

So much for New Castle, Delaware. Last Thursday, I looked in on one of Mr. Roosevelt's forest conservation camps, an interesting place also.

Back behind me, the state of Pennsylvania was in a solid block for fifty miles or more, perhaps 100,000 acres of young forest trees as far as I could see, 15 to 40 years old, the making in time of valuable timberland, fitted for nothing else, but well adapted to this. Ten miles beyond the village of Bane on the Pennsylvania R. R., is the camp, a clearing in the forest, with army tents and a mess house.

The young fellows are employed in thinning out the stand, removing dead stuff, making fire lines and fire breaks, these last being wide roads running for miles. Also, here is a new one, they search hill and dale for wild gooseberry bushes, as the barberry is blamed for acting as host to black rust of wheat, the native cedar host to apple scab, the wild gooseberry is held as host of white pine blister. In the state planning, you will find many dead pines. Everywhere in this region, dead white pines and hemlocks, therefore, the wild gooseberry.

The young fellows are employed in a useful piece of work. I have seen all these mountains fireproof from end to end. Of late I have roamed over thousands of acres of this young timber. This is the first step towards conservation. Only, I should like to see some thousands, instead of 250. These can only scratch it. Also, I visited the state nurseries at Greenwood Furnace, where young trees, mostly conifers, are produced in quantity, and I am told, are given to prospective planters of private forest, subjects only to certain conditions. Friends of mine are planning to plant 300 acres.

I have seen all the processes of forestation in Germany, but to find in operation in Pennsylvania, is something new. Good roads, some of them macadam, intersect it, fifteen miles from State College, drive in some time.

Well, I guess I have told you Republicans enough about Mr. Roosevelt's conservation process. "Would do a lot of you good to come and visit it. The public in my travels is usually optimistic. Stand pat, it may succeed, it may not, but we are all in for it. Mr. Hoover's shots in the arm got nowhere. Let us hope, Mr. Roosevelt's will. My chief fear is a flood of cheap money, non-redeemable paper flat legal tender, seeping up and down in value from day to day.

Now I shall ring off. I shall see you in the not remote future. We shall be in town a few days.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE A. DICKSON.

Former Pupils And Teachers Plan To Be At Lincoln Reunion

Program Will Be Of Interest
With Community Singing
As A Feature

The responses received to the invitations that have been sent out to former pupils and teachers of Lincoln school for the annual reunion to be held September 8 at the school building has been so great, that it is believed that there will not only present this year many who have never been present before, but also a somewhat greater number than usual.

Each former pupil of the school between 1881 and 1900 has been requested to write as many of their former classmates and school associates and teachers as possible in an effort to get them to attend this annual event. This will include many former well known residents of the city.

A general program will be carried out, which it is planned shall be of more or less an impromptu character and not too lengthy, permitting most of the time to renewing old acquaintanceships and recalling old time school experiences. Community or rather group choral singing will also be a feature of the evening.
